larger than usual. There were special programs in many churches, including the favorite musical numbers of the martyred President. In the afternoon Webster's band gave a concert in Eden Park with a program adapted to the anniversary that was commemorated. In most of the churches of the day, appropriate exercises were also held in all the benevolent and other public institutions. In some churches the Methodist tributes were as elaborate as on Easter. In many places the portrait of McKinley was festooned with wreaths and flags. The posts of the Grand Army of the Republic attended in bodies at different churches. At the Cathedral, Archbishop and the Rev. Mr. Washburn were assisted by Rev. J. W. Helfman, of New York, who read a prayer for the departed President. At the Cathedral, Archbishop and the Rev. Union Services at Springfield.
SPRINGFIELD, O., Sept. 14.—A monster McKinley memorial service was held in the large Y. M. C. A. Auditorium this afternoon. All the churches in the city joined in holding a union meeting. Former Governor Ass. S. Bushnell was chairman of the meeting and introduced the three speakers, Gen. J. Warren Kiefer, John L. Zimmerman, and the Rev. Dr. B. F. Bauslin, of the Wittenberg Theological Seminary. The Mitchell Post, G. A. R. veterans, attended the meeting in a body. Separate memorial services were held in different churches of the city to-night.

DISPLEASED MR. ROOSEVELT.

Sermon at Oyster Bay Not in Keeping with the Occasion.

OYSTER BAY, N. J., Sept. 14.—Rev. Dr. Henry Homer Washburn, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, incurred the avowed disapproval of President Roosevelt to-day by a sermon in which he devoted considerable attention to "possibilities of danger coming by and through the ungodly use of great wealth concentrated in the hands of a few," and in which he also stated that "if ever circumstances indicated that one was placed providentially in the executive chair of the Nation, then the circumstances that attended the promotion of Mr. Roosevelt so indicated."

Few Allusions Made to the Life and Death of McKinley.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Little departure from customary services was made in Boston churches to-day, so that the occasion could scarcely be termed McKinley day. Here and there a pastor referred to the national calamity a year ago, but through lack of concerted action no memorial sermons, strictly speaking, were preached. While there was no general observance of the anniversary in other parts of New England, most of the pastors alluded feelingly to the event.

In Providence James B. Parker, the colored waiter who is said to have been the first to seize the assassin, Colgate, when he shot President McKinley in the Temple of Music at Buffalo, was the principal Special Prayers in Catholic Churches.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 14.—McKinley memorial services were generally held in all the churches of the several denominations in this city to-day. The life and work of the late President formed the subject matter of the discourse of the preachers, or, if not that, choirs sang the two hymns which Mr. McKinley liked so well. In the Roman Catholic churches a prayer composed by Archbishop Carroll for the guidance and protection of rulers was read. A very impressive observance was at Edgewater Park, where 25,000 people, present at a band concert, joined in the singing of the hymn, "Nearer, my God, to Thee," with heads uncovered, to the music of a band.

Carnations Much in Evidence.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 14.—All of the churches held special memorial services to-day for the late President McKinley. At the Catholic churches the services were held after the celebration of the morning mass, while many of the Protestant churches held their services to-night. At the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church to-night United States Senator Moses E. Clapp delivered an oration extolling the virtues of the late chief executive. Special musical programmes were a feature of many of the services. A procession that was adopted by many of the citizens was the wearing of a pink carnation in memory of the martyred President.

Children Observed the Day.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 14.—The anniversary of President McKinley's death was not observed by special services in all the Milwaukee churches. The most elaborate commemoration of the day was at the English Lutheran Church. The church held a service to-night in which the children of the church took part. Prior to the service the church held a picnic for the children of the late President's life. The Rev. Dr. Hall, who occupied the pulpit at Calvary Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Sermons Against Anarchy.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 14.—Services were held in all of the churches in Kansas City to-day commemorating the first anniversary of McKinley's death. CAMPAIGN FOR PROXY

REPUBLICANS ARE PREPARING FOR A GRAND ORATORICAL FINISH.

Little Demand for Literature, and Speakers Will Be Depended on to Arouse Political Enthusiasm.

CAREFUL REGARD FOR DETAILS

NOTHING NEGLECTED THAT WILL CONTRIBUTE TO PARTY SUCCESS.

Most Eminent Men in the Party to Participate—Thousands of Minor Speakers Will Be at Work.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The Republican congressional campaign committee is arranging for a whirlwind finish. In fact there will not be much of a finish to the campaign. The first week in October and there will be one continuous roar along the fighting line from then until the Saturday night before the election. Never in the recent history of the party were the preparations for an off year so extensive and elaborate.

It is to be essentially a speaking campaign.

There has been a free use of literature, but the main dependence is to be placed on heart-to-heart talks with the voters. The distribution of printed matter is nearly finished; that is, the orders have nearly all been given and the actual sending out of the documents is progressing so rapidly that it soon will be over. There is no sharp hunger for literature shown by the several Congressmen have come to the conclusion that the people are not reading the speeches sent out. Perhaps the main reason for this is that there is no sharp and vital issue on which the voters desire to inform themselves.

Chairman Babcock, of the committee, who has a political foresight excelled by few men in this party, seemed to have anticipated this. The statement of the campaign of education in the history of the party was that of 1896, when nearly every voter in the country was marshaling facts on one side or the other of the money question. Whenever two men met there was a campaign of education. The demand for statistics and other political information was tremendous. It is doubtful if there is in that campaign the literature had more effect than the oratory. The 1900 campaign was almost without limit. He was the owner of the Colorado Springs street-railway system. His wealth is estimated at $15,000,000.

It is impossible to say how many acres of the sawtimber have been destroyed. Dr. Nale, an intimate friend of Tullio Murri, who confessed the murder of the count last week, has given himself up as implicated in the crime.

In spite of the evidence against her, which the police believe to be convincing, the countess protests her innocence.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Extraordinary scenes, verging upon riot, occurred to-day at Clapton, where nearly 5,000 persons attempted to mob Smyth Piggott, a former Englishman clergyman, who is now the leader of an eccentric sect called the "Agapomones."

Administered in time, the essence of turpentine is even capable of preventing the appearance of scarlatina nephritis and of relieving the patient of the use of turpentine for internal use was prescribed as early as 1868 for scarlet fever by a physician of Helsingfors, M. W. S. STRATTON IS DEAD

FAMOUS COLORADO MINER WHO WAS BORN IN INDIANA.

Native of Jeffersonville Who Went to Colorado Springs in 1872—His Struggles and Ultimate Success.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 14.—Winfield Scott Stratton, millionaire mining man, died at 9:30 o'clock to-night. Mr. Stratton had been ill for several months. He had been in a critical condition for several weeks and his death was expected any day to-day. He has been a successful prospector throughout the life, and the relatives, including a sister, Mrs. Jennie Cobb, of San Jose, Cal., who is the only near relative who survives Mr. Stratton, did not leave his bedside at any time.

Mr. Stratton was born in Jeffersonville, Ind., in 1848.

After an education in the city schools he mastered the carpenter's trade. He came to Colorado Springs in 1872, and had since been a resident of this city. For thirty years, more or less, he has been a prospector in various Colorado camps where he opened the famous Independence Bonanza. In April, 1891, having seen some specimens of gold ore from the Cripple Creek district that impressed him favorably, he decided to enter the mining business. On the 30 of July, when a man who had agreed to grub-stake him disappeared, Mr. Stratton started for Cripple Creek to stake out a claim on his own account. He rode the thirty-five miles from this city to the camp on horseback, and on the morning of July 4, 1891, staked out the Independence and Washington claims. The Independence gave him a ten-acre tract of 380 to the ton, and in 1892 he leased and bonded the Washington for $50,000. The Independence yielded Stratton millions, and in 1898 was sold by him for $100,000, he retaining, however, a very considerable interest.

Mr. Stratton's private charities were boundless and his interest in the public welfare was almost without limit. He was the owner of the Colorado Springs street-railway system. His wealth is estimated at $15,000,000.
